

Last Orders

Is it time to go home?
Did we drink all that wine?
Are your lovely brown eyes
That much wiser than mine?

Will the angels all say
When they judge us one day
That you drove me to drink
And I drove you away

There'll be time to reflect
On such exquisite pains
As we wait for the clatter
Of circle-line trains

